

The Dutch Treat.

The popular style of entertainment just at present seems to be the "Dutch treat," and it promises to be the leading fashion all winter. When a small party of young people went out to Fairview Park, one day in the summer, and each member of the party paid for his or her own ride, and then when they went to the pavilion for some ice cream and the same sort of payment was offered the waiter, he said it was the Kentucky style. Whatever it is called in different parts of the country, the Indianapolis people call it the Dutch treat. There is a sort of freedom attending a gathering of this kind. No one is indebted to another for anything except the pleasure of the company. It relieves the young man with the slender salary, and allows him to spend an evening with the young woman he prefers and all at a trifling expense. When the Dutch treat prevails no one is likely to run into any great extravagance. The young woman in general society is not burdened with any allowance which will admit of riotous living even for one evening, and if she accepts the attention or society of a young man for an evening she has to have the whole amount which it will probably cost her very definitely in her mind, and an amount in her pocket, before she can or will be one of the party. It would be very embarrassing for any young lady to have to borrow money to take her home because she happened to run short, and of course she would not like to ask it from the young man who took her, for would she like to ask any other one for it? The safest plan is to purchase to have some young lady arrange the entertainment and make all the contracts and have them in black and white, then every girl could ask how much the sum would be and she could make her plans accordingly. No matter whether the gathering is to be a supper, a dance, or a dance, or a German, the popular form is the Dutch treat, and if one wants to attend, the money to pay for it must be produced by each individual. There have been several house parties where each guest paid his or her share, and so much will this be the mode for the coming season that probably some young men who wish it known that they have paid the way of the young lady whom they have with them will find it necessary to make some sign or wear some label.

The Fortnightly Literary Club.

The first meeting of the Fortnightly Literary Club will be held Tuesday afternoon at the Propylaeum, and it will be President's day. The nature of the initial meeting will be a banquet, more of a literary feast than a feast of what is commonly termed a banquet. The members are asked to attend without bonnets, and in this wise make the entertainment less formal than such occasions usually are. The programme committee, composed of Mrs. J. S. Jenckes chairman, Mrs. Albert Baker, Mrs. Charles W. Fawcett, Mrs. A. L. Claypool, and Mrs. W. A. Van Buren, has arranged a list of subjects for the work of the club for the coming year which is excellent. The dates, subjects and those who are to participate are as follows:

Sept. 26—Paper, "Spain Today and in the Time of Columbus," Mrs. E. B. McQuinn, conversation, "The Republic of Spain on Modern Times—Queen Isabella and Felipe Maria Percevallo," Mrs. Jacoby and Miss Mary B. Dye.

Oct. 10—"The Empire of Germany," Mrs. Ballard, conversation, "Blamark and the Three Emperors, William and Napoleon II," Mrs. C. P. Doney and J. T. Barnett.

Nov. 7—Conversation on currents of the day, Miss Elizabeth Dye, leader, assisted by Mrs. Denny, Miss Kate Malott, Mrs. Norris and Mrs. H. Dye.

Nov. 21—"What Our Country Owe to the Netherlands," Mrs. C. W. Fairbanks, conversation, "A Modern Dutch Novel," Marton Martens, Mrs. Ray and Mrs. H. H. Dye.

Dec. 5—"The Danubian Principalities and Their Relation to the Political Economy of Europe," Mrs. Carstensen, conversation, "Garmen Sylva, Queen and Writer," Mrs. Ellet, Miss Baker and Mrs. Daniels.

Jan. 2—"The Republics of the World," Mrs. Solomon Claypool, conversation, "The Republic, and Ideal Form of Government," Mrs. Gill, Miss Florence Malott and Miss Sadie C. Dye.

Jan. 16—Conversation on current events, Miss Ream, leader, assisted by Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Kahn, Miss Allen and Mrs. Horace H. Fletcher.

Jan. 30—"England in Egypt," Miss Irene Blackledge, conversation, "The Book of Moses and the Egyptian Legends," Mrs. J. R. Brown and Mrs. Albert Baker.

Feb. 13—"The Art of Invention," Mrs. Townsend, conversation, "The Great Egyptian," Mrs. Hilary and Mrs. Eaton.

Feb. 27—"Physical Phenomena," Mrs. E. C. Williams, conversation, "Measles and Its Successors—Madame Blavatsky, Mrs. Besant and Others," Mrs. J. S. Jenckes and Mrs. Clipping.

March 13—Conversation on some events of the day, Mrs. W. B. H. Dye, conversation, "Mrs. Bradford, Mrs. Backstrom and Mrs. Margaret Smith."

March 27—"Practical Philanthropy," Mrs. Coo, conversation, "An English and American Example—Octavia Hill—Helen Campbell," Mrs. Caldwell and Mrs. H. Dye.

April 10—"Mary Munford Booth," Mrs. W. H. Dye, conversation, "In Darkest England," Mrs. Swan and Mrs. W. H. Dye.

April 24—"The Growth of Education," Mrs. McCullough, conversation, "Girton and Vassar Colleges," Mrs. Eugene Edmonds, and Mrs. May 8—"The Poets of the Victorian Era," Mrs. J. P. Dunn, conversation, "Tennyson and Keats," Mrs. J. W. Hise and Mrs. Niblack.

May 22—"Mrs. Julia Ward Howe: The Saturday Club," Mrs. J. P. Dunn, conversation, "Resolved, That as the closing years of the nineteenth century are heralding the bright beginning of woman's opportunities, so the twentieth century will be crowned with their full fruition," Mrs. Kahn and Mrs. Jameson.

in. Among those present from out of the city were Miss Grace Ealinger, of Martinsville, and Miss Minnie Perkins, of Lebanon.

Miss Eleanor Allen gave a delightful dancing party, Friday evening, at her home, on North Illinois street. The guests of her guest, Miss Grinnell, of Burlington, Vt. There were about one hundred guests, and the whole of the beautiful house was thrown open to their entertainment. An orchestra furnished the music, and the dance continued until a late hour. Miss Grinnell will return home this week.

A pleasant social evening was the marriage of Miss Alice Griffin, daughter of Elder A. J. Griffin, and Dr. E. M. Amos, of Kempton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. L. Ward, of the Sixth Christian Church. The wedding march was played by Miss Minnie Griffin, of Kankakee. There were artistic decorations throughout the home. Dr. and Mrs. Amos left that evening for their home. The bride, who was a popular music teacher, will be missed by her pupils and a large circle of friends. Those present were Dr. and Mrs. Amos, Mr. and Mrs. Brown, and Master Frost Patton favored their friends with some delightful music during the evening. After receiving the congratulations of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Strong left for an extended trip to Florida, Ill., and the world's fair. They will be at home to their friends after Oct. 1 at No. 27 Fort Wayne avenue.

The marriage of Mr. Van Burton Willets, of this city, and Miss Mattie Fry, of Richmond, took place Thursday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, at the palatial home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Pray, just out of Richmond. The preparations for the event were elaborate, and the house and grounds were handsomely decorated for the occasion. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Pennington, of New Castle, N. C., in the presence of a large company of friends from many places. The bride and groom were Mr. Walter Marnon of this city. Preceding the ordeal

CLOAKS
READY-MADE DRESSES

This week we make our first fall offering of Wraps and Dresses. Here you will see the latest ideas of the season, as you always have done in the past. Our Cloak Department will maintain the rank it has won—of being "The Leader." Greater efforts have been made this season than ever before. The result of these great efforts will be seen in the finest display of Wraps ever shown in Indianapolis. Come and look through the Department, whether you wish to buy or not.

KID GLOVES

Our great Kid Glove Department opens the Fall season just double its former size, and with the largest stock we have brought to Indianapolis. Only one stock of Gloves in Chicago equals this stock, and none surpasses it, while our prices are fully 10 per cent. less than the big city's. Our patrons have advertised this department better than the newspapers; they know our Gloves fit, they know we employ expert glove fitters, they know we also employ an expert glove maker to alter, repair and to embroider Gloves in shade desired.

To-morrow we open the season with many novelties in Kid Gloves, besides many popular priced Gloves.

The P. Cantmeria Kid Gloves in black and all colors.

"Jouvin," the world-renowned Kid Gloves, in all colors.

The large button Kid Gloves in 4-button lengths.

The best "One-dollar" Kid Gloves in the world.

If you want the correct style and perfect fit, go to Wasson's.

party were Miss Bertha Ballard and Master Walter Pray, who carried baskets of flowers and strewed them in the path. The bride wore a handsome gown of cream tulle and the bridesmaid a white tulle gown and carried the bride's bouquet of white roses. A party of forty went from this city in a special car and returned the same evening. The wedding march was played by Miss Carrie Hodson. Mr. and Mrs. Willets have gone on an extended trip, and when they return they will go at once to house-keeping in their new home, No. 120 Talbot avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Willets will receive their friends Oct. 11, from 3 to 6 o'clock and from 8 to 11 o'clock.

Irvington. Mrs. Herbert Shank will go to Chicago this week to visit the world's fair.

Tibbott, Mrs. J. E. Watts, who has also been visiting Mrs. Tibbott, returned to her home in Winchester on Thursday.

The usual fall reception given by the young men and women of the Christian Association to new students will be held to-morrow evening in the Pythian Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. John Engle, who have been spending a week with Mr. Frank Leslie, have returned to their homes in Winchester, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Cross and children, Jessie and Harry, leave this week for a visit with Mr. Cross's parents in Pennsylvania. They will spend some time at the world's fair before returning.

Miss Ella Frazier gave a delightful 6 o'clock tea on Friday afternoon. Miss Frazier was assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. Simon Frazier. The daintily arranged tea table was ornamented with fruit and autumn flowers. The company included Miss Conner, Miss Eva Jeffries, the Misses Carver, Miss Mayne, Misses of Wabash, Laura Knapp and others.

Prof. Thomas Iden entertained all the young men in college at his home last evening. Upon arriving each guest was "tagged," his name written on a shipping tag, being pinned on his coat. This novel idea was designed to do away with the formality of introductions and proved a very successful method of enabling the new students to become acquainted with one another.

Mrs. Orville Carvin gave an informal company on Tuesday evening, in honor of her sister, Mrs. Alfred Brown. The company consisted entirely of former friends of Mrs. Brown. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frierer and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Norris, of Indianapolis; Mrs. Sloan and daughter, Miss Anna Sloan, of Cincinnati; Mrs. Sprier, of Bedford; Miss Hattie Ritter and Mrs. Charles Clark.
